SOCIETY

Mrs. F. M. Hatch of Park av. will entertain Friday with a luncheon for the members of the Schuyler Colfax chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The regular meeting of the Auten Relief corps was held Tuesday evening at the Auten hall. Only the regular business was transacted.

Members of the Christian Endeavor of the Trinity Presbyterian church were entertained Tuesday evening with a weiner roast at the home of Fred Larbough on Miami st. The evening was spent very pleasantly by the young people with games and other social pastimes.

The Aid society of Munson chapel enjoyed a thimble Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. B. Munro, 810 E. Washington av. About 35 ladies were present. The afternoon was spent socially with sewing and light refreshments were served by the hostess. Garden flowers were used in decorating the house. The next regular business meeting of the society will be held the first Tuesday in October at the home of Mrs. A. C. Pommert, 709 E. Leslie av.

Miss Bessie Drone, 712 N. Scott st., entertained 25 friends Monday evening in celebration of her birthday anniversary. The young people were members of the congregation of the Westminster Presbyterian church. The evening was spent with games, music and contests. Favours in the latter were awarded to Miss Bernice McMannis and Miss Bessie Shaw. A dainty luncheon was served at the close of the evening by the hostess. Flowers from the garden were used effectively in decoration.

The Tuesday Social club was entertained very pleasantly Tuesday by Mrs. Wilbur Brown and Mrs. Clarence Rockhill at the latter's home in Lydick. Members to the number of 30 left at 9 o'clock in the morning and returned at 5 in the evening. The day was spent with needlework, a delicious dinner being served at noon. Garden flowers were used daintily in appointing the table. The afternoon was spent with various social diversions. The club will meet in two weeks with Mrs. G. W. Keiser, 1811 Michigan av.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the First M. E. church was entertained Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. M. M. Stull, 1203 S. Michigan st. Mrs. Stull was assisted by Mrs. B. P. Eldred, Mrs. R. S. Siple and Mrs. E. Dice. During the business meeting Mrs. H. Appleby, president of the society, urged that a box be filled by members of the society and congregation to assist the Chicago Record Herald in its Christmas campaign for poor little children. Myron Campbell gave a talk on the annual meeting of the society and Miss Ada Campbell gave an interesting talk descriptive of the Campbell settlement in Gary which is now being completed. Mrs. W. McNeill had charge of the program, the topic of which was "Young People in Mission." Miss Verna Campbell gave the principal discussion. Mrs. Geo. Taylor was elected secretary of literature. The meeting closed with a social hour during which refreshments were served by the hostesses to about 25 ladies. The society will meet Oct. 20 with Mrs. Fred Keller, 609 Portage av.

Smile no Matter What Is on The Mind Says Irene Warfield

"It is necessary to smile if one would have a reputation for beauty."

BY IDAH McGLONE GIBSON.

"Many a girl has become a popular model on the strength of her smile alone," said Miss Irene Warfield, who poses for many of the best dry goods houses. I wonder if all the girls who long so anxiously for beauty know the wonderful appeal that is made by a smile. "Look pleasant," says the photographer, because he knows that when you see yourself as others see you you will be much disappointed if you find the down-drawn mouth, the saddened eyes and general doleful expression with which you faced the camera. Smiling can be made a habit and it is necessary to smile if one would have the reputation to beauty. The most talked-of picture in the world—the one that has held the attention of every beauty and art lover of civilization, is the picture of a smile; the subtle, fascinating, irresistible smile of the Mona Lisa.

The would-be attractive girl of today cultivates a franker smile than the one in the de Vinci masterpiece. If you would have a captivating smile you must be very careful of the shape of your mouth. You can change the shape of your mouth and in a short time curve your lips upward or downward as you will. Never go to sleep with your lips shut tightly. Try to always think pleasant thoughts—at least try to smile—the mere act of smiling will change the trend of your mind. Of course, you will take very good care of your teeth, go to the dentist twice a year and have them looked over, especially cleaned, and any cavities filled. Do not have your front teeth filled with gold. A mouth filled with gold is as vulgar as diamonds set in the teeth. Above all keep smiles on whatever may be the state of your mind or how near your heart is breaking.

WIFE CLAIMS HUSBAND NEGLECTED YOUNG CHILD

John Domagalski, 1124 W. Division st., was arrested in city court Wednesday morning and pleaded not guilty to charges of child desertion filed by Mrs. Mary Domagalski. The case was continued until Sept. 23, and bond was fixed at $200. The complaining witness, his wife, alleged that Domagalski had failed to provide for their young child.

MOVING COMPANY WANTS TO COLLECT FOR LABORS

Suit was filed in the circuit court Wednesday by the City Moving & Wrecking Co. against the National Grocery Co., the National Dry Kill Co. and the Automatic Sprinkler Co. of America, to foreclose a mechanics lien and judgment of $210. It is alleged by the plaintiffs that Frank Essick made a contract with the National Boiler and Sheet Iron Works to install a five-ton tank on the third floor of the National Grocery Co. Essick was bought out by the plaintiffs and the work done by them but they have received no payment for the work, according to the complaint. The contract is said to have called for $100, while $10 is asked for extra work and $100 for attorney's fees.

Milk Lacking: Babies Starve

"Women And Babies Are Enemies When Germany Goes to War"

BY MARY BOYLE O'REILLY.

Brussels, Belgium (By Mail). Nurse Marie Felicite, of the French Red Cross, met me at the hospital door. I had seen her for a moment at midnight with white arms crimsoned to the elbow with the cross, step confident, manner serene. Now her face was white.

"There is no milk in Brussels," said Nurse Marie Felicite.

I made to laugh. There are many things wanting in the captured capital. "And the babies?" prodded the Red Cross sister. Then I sensed the horror.

"Therefore, we have arranged to go to the commandant of the city," she continued, "determined on appeal—four of us—women of different countries. Will you come? Will you be an American delegate?" In half an hour the quartet stood in the Hotel de Ville explaining our mission to a representative of the German army governor. Nearer that potentate we could not approach. By agreement we tacitly waived nationality to state the case of the little ones. The English woman spoke in German, the French woman in Flemish, the Belgian in English, the American in French.

Our plea was plain and pointed. "The outposts prevent dairy carts entering the city. Therefore babies starve."

The Prussian officer's silver-strapped shoulders moved ever so slightly. "We trust, Herr Lieutenant (the English woman's voice was toneless with neutrality), we beg that milk farmers may be allowed to come to the gate as neutrals."

The officer's upstanding mustache twitched with amusement. "Then we insist," urged the American, "that we women, on our honor, be permitted to pass the barrier—merely to return with a peasant's milk cart."

"Now we demand!" climaxed Nurse Marie Felicite, and the Red Cross on her sleeve was not brighter than the color in her cheeks. "We demand that we women, or your soldiers (who are willing), be allowed to secure milk for the babies of Brussels."

Followed an instant's silence. French woman and German officer eyed each other. Her manner was calm, confident, the spirit of new France. His military feudal to the verge of insolence. He spoke with finality that denied contradiction.

"You ask the absurd—the impossible. We French recognize no distinction of persons. Men, women, children, all are enemies of the fatherland when Germany makes war!" Today a hundred babies lie dead in Brussels.

TO ENTERTAIN MILLER. A reception will be tendered Friday evening at the Oliver hotel to Hon. Hugh Th. Miller, republican nominee for United States senator from Indiana.
